The Monuments of Hereford and Herefordshire, 14th-16th September 2018.

This year's symposium venue is to be held at the Green Dragon Hotel, in the city centre, which is opposite the cathedral. The symposium will focus on monuments in the cathedral and surrounding Herefordshire countryside, where there is such a wealth of monuments. There will be a varied lecture programme ranging from the fabulous Romanesque carving at Kilpeck church, arms and armour worn by Herefordshire knights, cathedral monuments and brasses. We will begin on Friday afternoon with an optional visit to the Cathedral's Mappa Mundi, chained library and after evening dinner a lecture on the Mappa Mundi. Lectures will begin on Saturday morning and with the afternoon free to visit the cathedral and explore its wealth of monuments. Lunch is not provided on Saturday but there are many eating places close by. On Saturday evening there is a drinks reception followed by a silver-served dinner and members contributions. On Sunday a varied lecture programme will be delivered, and the symposium will close with afternoon tea at 4.00. The event is also open to those who wish to attend on a daily basis.

Programme.

Anyone wishing to give a short paper under member's contributions should contact the organiser Mark Downing.

Accommodation at the hotel is en-suite and is limited and will be reserved on a first-come-first-served basis. There are singles, doubles and twin rooms. Should the demand for rooms exceed our allowance, members still wishing to attend, unfortunately will have to make their own arrangements for accommodation. If any member wishes to extend their stay before or after the event, this can be organised with prior notice with the organiser. The cost for the full symposium is £180 (£200 for non-members), full board. Alternately, members may choose to attend on a non-residential basis: Saturday – morning lectures, (fee: £15, non-members £20). Sunday – lectures including lunch (fee: £30, non-members £35). Optional visit to the Mappa Mundi and Chained Library exhibition (£6). The deadline for bookings is 31st August 2018.
